He catches her gaze and grins knowingly at himself in a nearby reflective surface before turning to Ivy with exaggerated politeness:

RANDALL
Welcome to Hyperion Data Corp! I'm Randall Nightthe night shift supervisor here!

He extends his hand smoothly toward hersbut instead of shaking it properly

Randall suddenly yanks off Ivy's jacket and tosses it onto an empty chair across from them like garbagehis grin widening provocatively as he steps closer, one arm resting possessively on the back of that chair beside hers; their bodies almost touching now

Randall scoffs loudly before stepping even closerto block any chance of escape or resistance

His warm breath brushes against Ivy's cheek

JANE (CONT'D)
This is a restricted area. How did you get in? And why are you treating me like that?

Ian's expression remains cold and unreadable as he steps closer.

IAN
Because my wife was brought here under your nameand I will not tolerate any negligence in her treatment.

Jane stares at him, perplexed. She glances down at herself, disheveled and weak on the hospital bed.

JANE
My wife? You must be mistakenI'm just

Before she can finish, Ian reaches into his coat pocket and pulls out a sleek black card emblazoned with Hyperion's logo. He flips it open slowly toward her facea clear display of power.

IAN

33

I am Ian Bennettthe head of Hyperion Data Corp's subsidiary branch in this cityand I am married to Ivy Hunter your daughter.

The words hit Jane like a freight train. Her breath catches sharply; disbelief floods her features before sinking into deep sorrow.

JANE (WHISPERING)
My daughter is married to someone from Hyperion?

She lowers her gaze instinctivelyeyes clouding with distant memories as pain etches deeper lines across her facebut then she freezes mid-thought when something catches hers again: Ian standing there so composed yet utterly unfamiliar

beside her bedside

Suddenly everything crashes down all at once:

JANE (SHOCKED)
You're saying... Ivy's husband is YOU?!

Ian tilts his head slightlyhis lips curling faintly into an amused smirk before freezing it instantly back into icy professionalism

He lifts one hand effortlessly toward Jane's shoulder but stops just short without touching it

IAN (COLDLY)
That depends on whether or not you believe me...

Then without another wordhe turns sharply toward the door behind them.*

His voice cuts through the room like ice.*

IAN (COMMANDING)

The heavy metal latch clicks loudly enough to echo through every corner of that tiny space.*

Jane stiffens visiblynoticing every movementbut still too stunned by Ian's words to react fully yet.* Her hands tremble faintly against the thin hospital gown draped over them.She exhales shakily.And finally

Her voice breaks out quietly but firmly:

A shadow passes briefly over Ian's face but almost imperceptibly.He hesitates only for half a heartbeat.Then he forces himself back upright.He meets Jane's eyes squarelywith absolute control over both tone and expression:

IAN
Because we made each other whole after years apartthat's why our souls recognized each other instantly even though we'd never met before

35

Silence falls heavily between them.Jane closes her eyes tightly.Her fingers clench involuntarily against themselves.A single tear slips silently down one cheek.It lands softly onto bare skin below.The sound feels deafening inside that quiet room where nothing else moves except two hearts beating wildly within broken bodies trying desperately not collapse completely anymore than necessary right now.

EPISODE 11

Jane wipes her tears away, sniffling softly.

JANE (SOFTLY)
Ivy's always been so stubborn she wouldn't marry a stranger. She must have known you before

Ian nods slightly, his gaze steady but unreadable.

IAN
Yes. We met once in the pastthen lost touch for years until fate brought us together again.

He leans back against the bed frame, folding his arms casually as he studies Jane with quiet amusement.

IAN (CONT'D)
Funny thing isI only saw Ivy because of you. You were the one who forced me to run into her at that café three months ago

36

Jane blinks in surprise, then shakes her head slowly as realization dawns on her face.

JANE
You mean when I dragged Ivy out shopping and ran into you by accident?

Ian smirks faintlya rare softness touching his eyes briefly before hardening again.

IAN
Exactly that moment. If it weren't for your meddlingI might never have found my other half sooner

Jane exhales shakily, still struggling to process everything Ian just revealed.She glances down at herselfstill wearing hospital clothesand instinctively covers up more tightly around her chest and legs.She speaks quietly:

JANE

IAN (V.O.)
Just another day at the office... if only.

125

They take their seats as the room falls silent. The doors close behind them with a definitive click.

At the head of the table stands RANDALL NIGHT, exuding smug confidence. Next to him is JULIA WINTERSher sharp eyes flicker toward Ivy before settling on Ian, her expression unreadable but clearly calculating.

RANDALL

Ivy Hunter you've been quite busy lately. And not just in your work hours.

A slow smile spreads across Julia's face as she steps forward deliberately, holding up a file for all to see.

JULIA

Oh? Do tell us more about these "extra-curricular" activities of yours...

She tosses a stack of photos onto the tableclearly staged shots of Ivy and Ian exiting various locations together:

restaurants, hotels even one where they're sharing an umbrella under pouring rain.

The room erupts into soft gasps and murmurs among board members and staffers alike. Ivy freezes for half a second before regaining composure instantly.

IVY

(SMIRKING COLDLY)

You really thought I'd fall for something so amateur?

She leans forward slightlyeyes locking onto Randall's smug gaze like steel cutting through fog.

And you think dragging me down would somehow benefit Hyperion?

Her voice dips lowercalm but razor-sharpthe kind that sends shivers down spines without raising volume once more than necessary.

IVY (CONT'D)
If I were truly compromising myself for this company, don't you think there'd be a lot more to show for it? Like increased stock value or winning contracts?

Her smirk widens as she casually flicks one of the photos toward Randall's feet.

IVY (CONT'D)
But all I see is your pathetic attempt at distraction. You're so desperate to cling onto power that you'd rather sabotage Hyperion than let me lead it properly.

RANDALL

(CHUCKLING DARKLY)
Bold words, Ivy. But rememberthis board isn't exactly on your side yet. They prefer stability. And who better to provide that than someone with my experience?

He gestures grandly toward himself, his arrogance practically dripping from every syllable.

JULIA

(SWEETLY VENOMOUS)

127

Experience is overrated when it comes to innovationand you know it, Randall. Ivy's been turning heads in the industry lately with her cutting-edge projects.

She leans closer to Ian, voice soft but deliberate enough for everyone to hear.

JULIA (CONT'D)
And honestly seeing her paired up with someone like him? It just confirms how far she'll go for success.

IAN

(FLAT TONE)
That "someone" happens to be meher partner in both life and work. If anything threatens her reputation or well-being, I won't hesitate to intervene.

His gaze locks onto Julia's perfectly composed facea silent warning wrapped in steel resolve.

All heads snap toward the entrance where Julia staggers in, tear-streaked and trembling. Her presence sends another wave of unease rippling through the crowd.

(COLD SMILE)

Perfect timing.

Julia collapses into a chair at the far side of the room before anyone can reach her. She clutches her chest tightly as if trying to steady herself amid emotional turmoil.

JULIA

(BARELY AUDIBLE)

He... forced me...

Before she can finish, Randall storms into view behind Julia with his signature arrogant smirk hands shoved deep into his pockets like he owns every inch of this building.

RANDALL

(LOUD ENOUGH FOR EVERYONE TO HEAR)

How dare you accuse me of coercion! If anythingI'm protecting Hyperion by keeping control away from someone so unqualified!

130

His gaze snaps sharply between Ivy and Juliaeach word dripping venomous disdain toward both women simultaneously.

RANDOM BOARD MEMBER #2

(MURMURING NERVOUSLY)

This is turning ugly fast shouldn't we intervene

Locking us in won't change anything. You're all just scared of what's coming next truth.

RANDALL

(snapping, pacing like a caged animal)

Truth? The only truth here is that you're unfit to lead Hyperion. And Iam its rightful heir!

JULIA

(WEAKLY SHAKING HER HEAD)

131

Randall don't let your ego ruin everything

She falters again, clutching her chest tighter.

RANDOM BOARD MEMBER #1

(WHISPERING URGENTLY TO ANOTHER)
We can't stay locked in here forever someone needs to break down those doors

IVY strides forward smoothly, eyes sharp as she glances at Randall before turning back towards the door.

IVY

(FIRMLY COMMANDING)
No need for brute force. Let me handle this.

She steps close to the door and places both hands on it firmlythen pulls with deliberate strength. With a soft creak and barely any resistance, the locks give wayand the doors swing open effortlessly.

A collective gasp ripples through the room as Ivy turns back with an almost amused smileher confidence radiating like a spotlight across every stunned face.

RANDALL

(SNARLING IN DISBELIEF)
How How did you do that?

IVY (O.S.)
Because nothing worth having stays locked away foreverincluding power and control over Hyperion... (beat)

And because sometimes... all it takes is knowing where not to push hard enough.

132

The board members exchange uneasy glances; some step closer toward Ivy while others eye Randall suspiciously now he looks increasingly vulnerable.

Ivy walks directly up to him without hesitationtheir gazes locking coldly as she reaches out slowlyto grasp his tie between thumb and forefinger.

Without warningshe yanks sharply downward.

Randall stumbles forward violently into Julia's armsthe two of them collapsing onto their knees in tangled humiliation

This is unprecedented! Ivy Hunter has just taken control of Hyperion!

BOARD MEMBER 2

(DEFENSIVE)
But Randall was appointed interim CEOhe's the rightful leader!

Ivy steps forward, her presence commanding silence. The room stills as she lifts her chin.

IVY HUNTER

(CALMLY, BUT WITH AUTHORITY)
Randall never had my position; he only held it temporarily until I returned. His actions today have proven his incompetenceand his betrayal of this company.

She turns slowly to face the board members directly.

(FIRMLY)
Hyperion belongs to me. And now, so does its future.

A low murmur ripples through the crowdsome nodding in reluctant agreement, others visibly unsettled by her dominance.

SuddenlyJulia pushes herself up from the floor and storms toward Ivy with clenched fists trembling in rage and humiliation.

JULIA WHITE

(SNARLING)
You think you've won? You've only just begun your real fight!

134

She lunges at Ivy with reckless furybut before she can land a blow, Ian Bennett appears behind her in an instant. Without hesitation, he grabs Julia's wrist firmly and twists it sidewayswith precision that sends her crashing back down onto the floor screaming in pain.

IAN BENNETT

(LOW VOICE)TO IVY

If anyone dares to cross you again... they'll regret it for life.

His gaze lingers on hersa flicker of something deeper beneath that cold exterior: respect admiration maybe even affection?

Ivy meets his eyes without flinchingtheir unspoken connection hanging thick between them for a heartbeat longer than necessary before she finally breaks contact with deliberate grace.

IVY HUNTER

(smirking slightly)Well done.

Ian straightens immediately turning abruptly back toward Julia without missing a beat.

IAN BENNETT

(AUTHORITATIVE)

Now get out of here before someone else decides not to be so merciful.

135

Julia scrambles off like whipped dog her screams fading quickly into silence as soon as she disappears around the corner.

The boardroom settles once more under Ivy's iron willas if nothing had ever dared challenge it at all.

She strides forward confidentlyonly to collide with a sea of REPORTERS and CAMERAMEN already waiting.

Miss Hunter! Is it true you've taken full control of Hyperion Data Corp?

IVY

(TILTING HER HEAD SLIGHTLY)
That depends on your definition of "full control."

FLASHBULBS POP as reporters jostle for position.

REPORTER #2

136

But doesn't that make you the most powerful woman in tech? How does it feel?

Ivy pauses, considering the question carefully before responding with measured grace.

IVY

Power has never been my goalit's just a byproduct of doing what needs to be done. My focus remains on innovation and leadership that drives progress for everyone at Hyperion.

Her words hang in the aircalm, confident, unshakable. The room falls silent except for scribbling pens and quiet murmurs of approval.

Suddenlythe elevator dings again. Ian appears beside her without hesitation or announcement.

IAN BENNETT

(SMIRKING SOFTLY)

Well looks like I'm not going anywhere either.

He reaches around Ivy from behind , slipping an arm possessively around her waistand turns toward the cameras with deliberate ease.

IAN (CONT'D)

We're partnersin business and beyond.

137

Ivy glances up at him brieflya flicker of amusement passing through her eyes before she leans back against his chest comfortably.

IVY
(teasingly)Don't get too attached yetI'm still figuring out if I want to keep you around long-term.
